LONG TERM CARE INSURANCE

Underwritten by Genworth Life Insurance Company

With longer life expectancies, rising health care costs and budget constrained government programs, it is more important than ever to think about your future long term care needs. Most of us understand the need to save for retirement. But many of us ignore an important part of preparing for the years ahead—a way to pay for long term care services.

Preparing for long term care can help you protect your family, your assets and your financial independence. Now is the time to get started.

Fortunately there may be an answer—the Long Term Care Partnership Program

The Deficit Reduction Act of 2005, which was signed into law in February of 2006, brings together public and private insurance resources in an innovative way to help consumers prepare for potential long term care needs. Long term care insurance purchased under these programs has created a new opportunity for consumers to enjoy both the benefits of long term care insurance coverage and asset protection in the event that Medicaid benefits are required.¹

States endorsing a long term care Partnership Program provide a valuable incentive for consumers to purchase this coverage and send a strong message about the importance of preparing for your future.

What does the Partnership Program do for me?

Because you live in a state that participates in the Partnership Program, you may be able to qualify for Medicaid in your state while retaining more assets than would otherwise be required under your state's Medicaid eligibility requirements. By purchasing Partnership-qualified long term care insurance, for every dollar of benefit you receive for covered care, you receive a dollar of asset protection. This is called dollar-for-dollar asset protection.

Here is an example²

Suppose you purchase Partnership-qualified long term care insurance and under the terms of your coverage, you receive $200,000 in benefits. Generally you will be able to keep an additional $200,000 in savings or investments, in addition to the assets your state already allows you to keep, and still meet that state's asset test for qualifying for Medicaid.

Without the Partnership Program, your state may require you to spend your $200,000 savings or investments for long term care services prior to becoming eligible for Medicaid. Keep in mind that generally, both income and assets are included in determining eligibility for Medicaid and that the Partnership Program protection relates to your assets only. Medicaid rules vary by state. You should check with your state's Medicaid office for the specific rules that apply in your situation.

Partnership Program qualifications

The long term care insurance you purchase must meet the following requirements in order to qualify for the benefits of the Partnership Program:

- Must be a federally tax-qualified long term care insurance plan; long term care insurance from Genworth Life Insurance Company meets this qualification.
- Must meet the following inflation protection requirements based on the client's age as of the date of the application:
 - If you are younger than 61, your plan must include compound annual inflation protection.*
 - If you are age 61 through 75, your plan must include some form of inflation protection.*
 - If you are 76 or older, your plan does not need to include inflation protection. However, you can select an inflation protection option and still qualify.*

Sounds like a great benefit—is there any additional cost?
No. There is no additional premium required in order to participate in the Partnership Program.

*Individual state requirements may vary. Certain states may require specific levels of inflation protection to qualify. Please consult with your agent for details.
